August 2019 submission call

I Like Crochet is looking for a variety of crochet patterns for our August 2019 issue! We're looking for unique fall designs. Details below.

Articles: Photo Tutorial + project combination (One specific stitch + small project that goes with it)

Deadline: Proposals submission deadline is February 1, 2019. Pattern decisions will be made once all submissions have been received. Please allow several weeks for a response from the due date. Projects due in office April 1, 2019. Projects will be published July 1, 2019.

Compensation/Support

- This varies depending on the size and complexity of the design. Our range is between $150-$450
- We prefer that designers use their own yarn, but we can pass along contact information for companies that have offered yarn support in the past.
- We take care of tech editing once we receive the pattern. You are responsible for communicating with our tech editor in a timely manner if she reaches out to you with questions.
- We will handle all photography so the completed projects will need to be sent to our office for a limited period of time. We are not buying any photography. All projects will be returned.

Rights

- We ask for exclusive rights for the first six months, following the pattern's publication date. After that, we ask for rights in perpetuity, so that we may use your project in our site's archives and publications. You, however, are free to re-publish or sell your project as you wish, once the six months are over.

Submission Requirements

Please use our new submission form on our website. Each individual submission attachment should include all of the following as a self-contained document:

- A sketch of your design idea
- A swatch of the proposed stitch work/pattern
- A detailed written description of the project, including any size or shaping information

Submission Themes: Full editorial calendars are available upon request, but here are the projects we are looking for this issue. Images are to be used as inspiration only for color palettes and design elements.

Looking forward to all of your lovely submissions!
